Land Bank to participate at Nampo to empower the future of farming and grow a stronger agriculture sector

The Land and Agricultural Development Bank (Land Bank), will participate at the annual Grain SA's NAMPO Harvest Day, taking place from 14 to 17 May. NAMPO Harvest Day is one of the biggest annual agricultural exhibitions under private ownership in the southern hemisphere and is held just outside of the town of Bothaville, in the Free State.

This year's theme for the event is "Embracing connectivity for sustainable growth", which will highlight how, in the digital era, South African farmers are leveraging digital solutions to overcome traditional challenges and drive their operations forward.

Land Bank believes that NAMPO is a crucial platform for stakeholders within the agricultural to engage through as it plays an important role in connecting the agricultural sector by offering producers a one-stop environment to interact and do business with small and large businesses and relevant role players.
